

Help Shape Wahkiakum County's Flood Future

Comprehensive Flood Hazard Mitigation Plan Update

Wahkiakum County is at high risk of flooding. Floods contribute to road closures, failing culverts, sediment runoff, and flooded homes. Since 2016, seven major disasters have been declared for flooding in the County.

A Comprehensive Flood Hazard Mitigation Plan (CFHMP) identifies local flooding priorities, supports natural resource protection, addresses flood hazard management needs and enables communities to compete for project grants.

The County is updating its Comprehensive Flood Hazard Mitigation Plan and wants your input. Planners use local knowledge and the best available science to understand flood risk, but your experiences are essential for identifying community priorities and the best actions moving forward.

BENEFITS OF A COMPREHENSIVE FLOOD HAZARD MITIGATION PLAN

IMPROVES PUBLIC SAFETY

Documents how flooding affects the community, including key concerns and needs

Supports land use planning that prevents and reduces flood hazards

Identifies proactive strategies for flood control and protection

SUPPORTS ECONOMIC RESILIENCE

Expands access to state and federal disaster mitigation funds, low-interest loans, and infrastructure grants

Supports participation in the National Flood Insurance Program

Reduces long-term maintenance and recovery costs associated with flood-impacted infrastructure

PROTECTS NATURAL RESOURCES

Makes recommendations to protect and improve habitat conditions

Considers impacts of strategies on recreation, water quality, and navigation

Identifies green infrastructure and nature-based solutions to reduce flood impacts

Want to help shape the plan?

Two workshops, facilitated by Wahkiakum Common Ground, will be held this fall/winter. Participants will visit local sites, hear from guest speakers, and identify local strategies for flood control and protection.
